

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An adaptive slicer threshold generation system includes a first moving average filter to determine a first average value of a first binary signal. A second moving average filter is included to determine a second average value of a second binary signal. A combiner combines the first average value of the first binary signal and the second average value of the second binary signal to generate a combined output.

FOFEOT 04E000T